Carter presents energy plans to reluctant solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is passing the job of formulating a tough new energy policy to a Congress that clearly is reluctant to accept the assignment.

Carter laid out his comprehensive energy program to a joint House-Senate session Wednesday night, acknowledging that it would be painful and declaring, "I don't expect much applause."

Smaller cars forecast

Gas prices could double under plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Our cars will be smaller, lighter and probably too sluggish for the speed jockeys. That's the future of the automobile under President Carter's plan to solve America's energy dilemma.

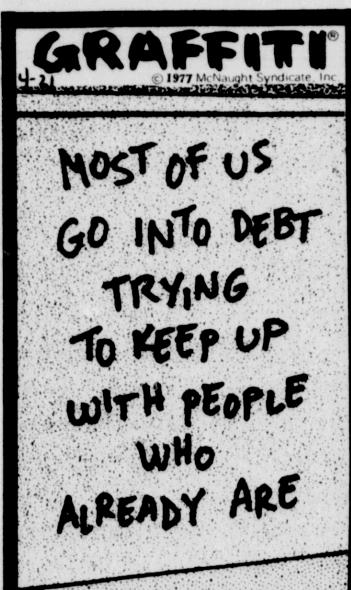

In unveiling his comprehensive energy program Wednesday night, Carter asked Congress for stringent legislation intended to curtail gasoline consumption.

Under his plan, if Americans don't cut back, gas prices would go up as much as 57 cents a gallon — nearly double — by 1985. Purchasers of 1978 cars that get less than 13 miles per gallon would pay a federal excise tax of $449; that tax would rise to $2,488 by 1985.

Those who buy small cars that get good mileage would be rewarded with cash rebates up to $473.

The plan also has a provision for gas rationing, a step that would be taken in an emergency such as the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

Carter said the penalties can be avoided if conservation is achieved. His solution is to use smaller autos, car and van pools, buses, subways and other public transportation, and drive fewer miles.

Gov. Rhodes says

President's energy policy contains no help for Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. James A. Rhodes said Wednesday night President Carter's national energy plan contains almost no elements aimed at increasing fuel supplies for Ohio, one of the states hit hardest last winter by the energy shortage.

"We have large energy reserves in this country, and in Ohio, and they must be developed while we are asking people to conserve," Rhodes said in a statement issued after Carter presented his energy program to Congress.

Rhodes said preliminary figures prepared by Tax Commissioner Edgar Lindley show that Ohio consumers could pay as much as $30 billion in new taxes and energy related costs over the next eight years under Carter's plan.

The governor said that amounts to $11,000 for every Ohio family.

"We cannot tax ourselves out of the energy shortage," he said.

Rhodes noted that Carter said some of the money would be returned to Americans in the form of rebates, but said the President did not indicate who would get the rebates.

David C. Sweet, a member of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, said he believed Carter's program would help improve natural gas supplies in the state.

By allowing interstate gas prices to rise to intrastate levels, he said, the President's plan should alleviate the problem of Ohio having to fight for dwindling natural gas supplies.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, welcomed several of Carter's proposals, especially elimination of the two-tiered pricing system for natural gas.

But he said he was disappointed that the President did not extend emergency allocation authority to industry. He said Ohio working people suffered enormous hardships this winter through gas curtailments because current law does not protect industries "that happen to be on the wrong pipeline systems."

Other comments on the President's program:

Karl Rudolph, president of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.: "I take issue with his proposal to equalize rates (to consumers of electricity)." He said utilities generally charge less per unit of energy to big industrial consumers because it costs less to deliver the energy in quantity.

—William H. Dickhoner, president of Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co.: Said he was in "complete accord" with Carter's assessment of the energy crisis and found his goal of simplified regulation of nuclear power plants "very encouraging."

—J.T. Rogers, vice president of Ohio Edison Co.: "To the extent that his program calls for increased reliance on coal resources and nuclear energy, we would wholeheartedly agree with it."

—Dudley Taw, president of East Ohio Gas Co.: "Our problem needs more than conservation. We have got to increase our efforts to supply all available energy."

—Donald Speyer, spokesman for Dayton Power & Light Co.: "Conservation programs and the wise development of our abundant coal deposits and other energy resources are all necessary."

City filing deadline April 30

Tax headaches not over yet

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

If you thought all your income tax headaches ended April 15, you could be mistaken. The filing deadline for Washington C.H.'s one-half per cent city income tax is just 10 days away.

Your employer may have taken care of the city income tax filing requirement for you by withholding money from your paycheck. If not, you must file by April 30.

The city's income tax department in January started mailing tax return forms to approximately 1,000 persons required to complete the document. Those receiving the form included workers who did not have the tax withheld by their employers, self-employed workers and owners of rental property.

Some tax forms were mistakenly mailed to persons who were not required to complete them. And, some persons who should have received the forms did not.

"There were some mistakes in mailing, but we hope that in the end we can straighten it out," said Raldon M. Smith, city income tax administrator. "I've had calls from a few people who were upset about receiving forms."

Smith pointed out that persons who did not have their tax withheld by employers and did not receive tax forms "still have the responsibility to obtain and complete the form before April 30."

Forms can be obtained from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at the city administration building, 208 N. Fayette St., or at the lobby of the Washington C.H. Post Office.

Taxpayers not filing before the April 30 deadline will be subject to a one per cent penalty (plus interest) per month or $10, whichever is greater. An ordinance approved by Washington C.H. City Council in July 1976 increased the penalty (plus interest) from one-half per cent per month to the one per cent fine.

Meanwhile, persons who had earnings withheld by employers but still received forms should contact the city income tax office so that the error in mailing can be corrected.

The internal processing by city income tax department personnel has been delayed because a few employers have not submitted year-end withholding statements on their employees, Smith said.

Another problem encountered by tax department personnel has been on employee W-2 forms. "Persons with W-2 forms should check them as we've found a few where the withholding was not done properly," Smith said.

Smith expects to begin processing returns for overpayments in early May "or maybe before then."

Last year all eligible taxpayers were required to file returns. The returns were verified manually by city officials.

Since then, however, the city has implemented a sophisticated computer system enabling income tax department personnel to compile a mechanized records system.

The computerized program eliminated the filing requirement for persons who had tax withheld during the year by their employers. Only about 10 per cent of the 11,000 persons subject to the tax are required to file forms.

Smith said the computer system will be "90 per cent accurate or better" on income tax matters.

"We realized with a computer program this size that there would be some initial mistakes," he said, pointing out the persons who received forms by mistake. "But we're continuously updating, changing and correcting."

The system, Smith said, is presently about 95 per cent complete. A five-year income tax history and delinquent taxpayer processing programs are being finalized and programmed.

The elaborate computer system also handles the city's general accounting data, sewer billing, the personnel payroll and will handle parking meter violation records in the near future.

'Massive problem' eyed

Major welfare reform urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' top fiscal adviser released a report critical of the welfare department today and urged prompt adoption of a major reorganization plan.

Budget and Management Director William W. Wilkins said in the report that welfare operations in Ohio have become "a massive problem."

Wilkins planned to tell a morning news conference that his study demonstrated a need for "consolidations and realignments" placing departmental operations into six operating divisions.

Most of the director's recommendations dealt with organizational problems, although it also mentioned inadequate monitoring of welfare recipient eligibility and "promiscuous" use of sick leave among welfare employees, among others.

In a summary of the report, the director said "due to the basic structure of welfare, with federal rules piled on top of Ohio laws, to be administered at the county level, the system is predestined to confusion and misinterpretation."

Wilkins said there is "peak and valley" distribution of departmental personnel, with some operations understaffed and others top heavy with supervisors.

The report challenged the efficiency of the department's regional offices and said the study indicated a need for more direct contact with the 88 county welfare offices.

It noted that eligibility for welfare is first established at the county level, but that less than one claim out of every 800 each month—in the case of Aid to Dependent Children—is investigated by the bureau of quality control as to eligibility.

Wilkins called the state review process "questionable."

"The King and I," one of the greatest of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical hits, will be presented by the Washington Senior High School musical department at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the Middle School auditorium.

The musical, which rivaled "Oklahoma" and "South Pacific" for a record stint on Broadway when first produced in New York, is based on the actual story of an English governess brought to Siam in 1860 by the king to tutor children he has fathered with numerous wives.

The story unfolds against the colorful background of the Asiatic country and eventually finds that the tutor's most interested pupil is the king.

The show's songs, many of which are now familiar favorites, are not presented in "song-numbers" in the old fashioned musical-comedy sense, but are part of the action and blend into the spoken dialogue, according to Kathy Wallace, vocal music director at Washington Senior High School and the play's director.

Sue Stapleton, a senior at Washington Senior High School, will star in the production as the prim, stubborn, yet witty tutor. She will sing the memorable melody "Getting to Know You," the haunting waltz "Hello Young Lovers" and other tunes including "Shall I Tell You What I Think of You?"

Wilkins noted that during 1976, department employees used 99,272 hours of sick leave, or 15,000 hours more than their combined vacations.

"It is recommended," the report said, "that the department attempt to determine the reasons for the promiscuous use of sick leave."

Wilkins, calling his report "a management tool" for the department, called for the creation of three deputy director positions, each with clearly defined responsibilities, and revisions in district office operations to provide improved liaison with county offices.

The three deputy directors would function under the assistant director, who would be directly responsible to the director. The deputies would head administrative support, fiscal operations, and programs.

The deputy director for administrative support would head the divisions of administrative services and data services, while the fiscal deputy would be over fiscal controls and management-auditing. The deputy for programs would supervise the program administration and legal services divisions.

Gas storage field slated

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. will begin development of a major natural gas storage field in Fairfield and Hocking counties, Ohio, the company announced today.

When the first phase of the project is complete in four years, Columbia's gas storage capacity will increase by 32 billion cubic feet, a Columbia spokesman said.

Ultimately, the new area, called the Crawford field, will have a capacity of 115 billion cubic feet, or about 19 per cent of the company's current capacity.

Crawford covers a five by 12 mile area and will contain about 230 wells when completed, the spokesman said. The field will be used to service present customers only, the spokesman said.

The company said the field will help in coping with shortages.

Application for the project, recently approved by the Federal Power Commission, was first made in 1973, the spokesman said.

Piketon atom plant plan could fade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The planned $4.4 billion addition to the uranium enrichment plant near Piketon in southern Ohio may be a casualty of President Carter's national energy policy.

Administration spokesmen said Wednesday night the President is considering moving the proposed new facility to Oak Ridge, Tenn., in compensation for the cancellation of another big nuclear project there.

In his energy address Wednesday night to a joint session of Congress, Carter announced that instead of using the "gaseous diffusion" method at the new facility as previously planned, the next plant should turn to a new technique called the "gas centrifuge."

A gas centrifuge plant would cost about the same to build, but Carter pointed out that it would use only about one-tenth as much electricity as a "diffusion" plant for the same production.

The switch would eliminate the need for two huge new power plants which the American Electric Power Co., seeking federal financial guarantees, would have built to power the Pike County facility.

But at a White House briefing, a top administration energy official said the new centrifuge plant would be built "in Tennessee or Ohio," and another spokesman later confirmed that this meant the Portsmouth plant may be reassigned to Oak Ridge.

Oak Ridge was slated to lose another big nuclear project, the Clinch River Breeder Reactor which Carter wants to cancel in an international bid to discourage the development of nuclear fuels based on plutonium, a metal easily used to make atomic bombs.

The proposed shift would have not only regional but also business implications.

Bechtel, Goodyear, and Union Carbide Corp., have the most experience in operating gaseous diffusion plants for the federal government, but other companies and groups have expressed interest in jumping into the new gas centrifuge technology and might enlarge the commercial competition for government contracting for such a new plant.

Ohio solon pilots energy measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The task of piloting President Carter's energy program through a labyrinth of House committees will rest on the shoulders of Thomas Ludlow Ashley, a 12-term Democratic congressman from Ohio.

Ashley was expected to be named today by House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill to head a select 37-member committee to oversee the energy legislation.

Although the elements of Carter's package will first be farmed out to regular House committees—at least six are expected to be involved—the Ashley panel will get a final crack at it. And Ashley said the unit will likely have "a bias or a tilt" in favor of the Carter proposals, reflecting O'Neill's decision to back the program down the line.

Ashley told an interviewer that doesn't mean the panel won't recommend some changes. The controversial proposal for a "standby" gasoline tax ranging up to 50 cents a gallon could be the first casualty of Carter's program, he said.

But Ashley said efforts will be made to hold the package together—something he claims would not have been possible in the House without such a committee.

Economic rebound brings new fears

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the economy rebounded strongly from last winter's cold wave, economists are divided over whether the recovery will trigger higher inflation.

The Labor Department releases its March consumer price report today and administration economists expect another big increase, though not as large as February's 1 per cent jump.

Higher costs for food and fuel, reflecting winter's impact, led the price surge in February. It was the biggest monthly increase in retail prices in 2½ years and followed an eight-tenths of 1 per cent jump in January.

President Carter cited accelerating inflation as a reason for abandoning his $50-per-person tax rebate plan last week. He also cited the strength of the economy's recovery from the slowdown experienced during the fourth quarter of 1976.

The Labor Department's budget proposal is expected to increase Rhodes' allocation for primary and secondary education, while withholding, temporarily at least, a portion of the welfare department budget. The bill was to be returned to the House Finance Committee today.

On the House floor Wednesday, state representatives approved 92-2 a bill exempting hospitals from liability when a nonresident physician failed to get an "informed consent" from a patient before performing emergency surgery in the hospital.

The measure also bars "ghost surgery," by requiring that patients betold in advance, except in emergencies, the name of the physician that will perform their operation.

A bill by Rep. Herman A. Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati, was sent to the Senate, which in separate action passed legislation guaranteeing a legal shield for radio and television newsmen at noncommercial stations.

The bill, authored by Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, extends to the public media the same protection against disclosure of sources as is already guaranteed employees of commercial outlets.

A picture of the Democrat-drafted budget began to emerge in bits and pieces Wednesday, despite orders by House Speaker Vernal Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, to keep the lid on details.

Wary of Rhodes' heavy handed veto power, the majority party plans to keep language at a minimum in the actual budget, while submitting a separate bill of "legislative intent," indicating how funds should be spent.

The second bill would presumably include some items that Rhodes wants in an effort to avert a veto. But if the governor should reject it, the Democrats have the votes to override him with a single roll call in each House.

U.S. businessmen applaud Castro talk

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The Minnesota trade delegation visiting Cuba met with President Fidel Castro for an hour and a half Wednesday night, and the bearded Communist revolutionary made a hit with the American capitalists.

"He's a great man with a great deal of charisma," said Jac De Hoog, president of Schouten International, a grain and seed firm. "I was very impressed with his intelligence and knowledge of the things we asked him about."

"Castro has done a lot for his country. I realize there are ideological differences, but we can see the problems that he's had in Cuba and believe he's done a lot to improve the lives of the Cuban people," said Al Wichman, president of Estates Securities Inc. of Minneapolis.

Wearing army fatigues as usual and smoking his ever-present cigar, the Cuban president was in a jovial mood, joked often and shook hands with each of the 52 members of the delegation after addressing them.

Castro told them the 16-year-old American ban on trade between Cuba and the United States was economically and morally unjustified, and its removal would create "optimum conditions" for the discussion of other problems between the two neighboring countries.

"If the United States trades with China and the Soviet Union and all the socialist countries of Europe, why do they maintain that measure in relation to Cuba?" he asked.

The members of the delegation, who already have said they would recommend that the embargo be lifted, gave him a standing ovation.

When he got down to specifics of trade, Castro told the visitors the same thing they heard from lower-ranking officials.

Led Zeppelin show stirs fuss

CINCINNATI (AP) — For the second time in three days police had to battle fans of the British rock group "Led Zeppelin," but police doubled their manpower and kept trouble at a minimum here Wednesday.

"When you've given enough people, you can control the situation," said Cincinnati Safety Director Richard Castellini after the group's second concert. Police in Miami, Fla., needed tear gas Sunday to disperse 200 persons who ransacked offices at the Orange Bowl.

An 18-year-old Dayton, Ohio, fan plunged 20 feet to a concrete ramp while trying to scale a wall, police said. Stanley Blair was reported in fair condition at a Cincinnati hospital.

Honorary chairmen pickedSorority completes plans for benefit bike ride on May 1

Plans have been completed for the 1977 Million Dollar Bike Ride sponsored by the Alpha Theta chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority in Washington C.H.

Mrs. Linda Zechman, bike ride chairman, said Mark Heiny of Washington Senior High School and Sam Grooms of Miami Trace High School will serve as honorary co-chairmen of this year's event which will be held Sunday, May 1.

Heiny son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert A. Heiny, 716 Park Drive is a senior at Washington Senior High School where he starred in football. Heiny was selected to the all-league second team as a quarterback last fall. He was co-captain of the Blue Lion team and was selected as the all-district first team quarterback and received honorable mention in all-state voting.

Grooms, son of Mrs. Janet Grooms, 371 York Road, near Greenfield, was a tri-captain with the 10-0 Panthers. He was a first-team all-league center, first team all-district and first team UPI all-state player in 1976.

Both Heiny and Grooms are active in various community projects and church activities.

The ride will start at the Huntington Bank parking lot at 3 p.m. "Members of the community can participate in the bike ride," said Mrs. Zechman, "by riding and by pledging financial support for riders."

Community support for the bike ride has been tremendous since the sorority began sponsoring the annual ride in 1972. Since the first ride five years ago, the local sorority has contributed over $15,000 to St. Jude's Children's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. The goal for this year's ride is $5,000.

St. Jude's Children's Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas in 1962 and is the largest childhood cancer research center in the world in terms of number of patients and success to treatment. Children receiving care at the hospital are treated free of charge, while clinical and research discoveries developed at the center are shared with physicians and scientists throughout the world.

In addition to assisting the Memphis, Tenn., hospital, participants in the 20-mile ride will be competing for prizes, including a large traveling trophy going to the school donating the largest amount of money. The rider completing the 20-mile course in the fastest time also receives a trophy.

The top price for the rider donating the largest amount of money is a citizen's band radio. Second and third place prizes are $50 and $25. McDonald's Restaurant, in cooperation with sorority members, is donating hamburgers to all riders completing the course.

Prospective riders are urged to pick up their sponsor lists when recruiting chairmen visit the local schools. Further information can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Zechman at 335-1389 or Mrs. Don Gibbs at 335-3583.

Turn signal timing

Drivers lame of brain - or, shall we say kindly, inattentive - do a lot of curious things at the wheel. One of their oddest departures from good sense has to do with signaling for turns and lane changes.

With not signaling, to put it more accurately. Not signaling at all, or not signaling soon enough to give the following driver a timely clue.

Those who simply don't signal are a class apart. Their behavior may spring from one or more of several things: plain carelessness, wool-gathering, impoliteness, indifference to the problems of others on the road, or in some cases a kind of to-hell-with-everything else arrogance. Whatever the cause, failing to signal is a dangerous business that the police should crack down on.

But what of the well-meaning driver who starts around a corner at the last possible moment - and remembers to slip on the signal light when the turn is halfway completed? What of the driver who serenely glides into the next lane without notice, turn signal beginning to flash as the maneuver is about finished? These are cases of what might be called belated good intentions.

The solution lies in good driving habits, scrupulously followed even when no one else appears to be on the road. The turn signal is intended as a warning device to let other drivers know what you plan to do, not an indicator that you're doing it - or have just done it. Habitually using it as timely warning averts much confusion, and might some day save a life.

THESE DAYS.... By John Chamberlain

No call to return to the draft?

What goes with the volunteer army? It has been called "a sinking ship" in a report by Dr. William R. King, a professor of business administration at the University of Pittsburgh. Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia, who isn't quite prepared to call for a return to the draft, speaks of "recruiting difficulties." He would like to examine a compulsory "national-service option" that would involve "environmental work, Peace Corps work, VISTA work, urban or rural-area work" and allow for voluntary military service within the bigger universal draft of 18 year olds.

The advocates of compulsion never cease to amaze me. We had compulsion for the Vietnam war - and it darned near wrecked the country. Assuming that there might be some difficulty recruiting an ethnically and regionally balanced military force once the American economy is humming again, the choice could well be between a somewhat below quality volunteer army and a sullen and almost mutinous draftee chain gang. In the real world one deals with refractory material in any case - and it is never wise to assume clear-cut choices.

As a matter of fact, however, the voluntary army, as it is presently constituted, is not doing badly at all. It costs more to run - but only because the nation has ceased to impose a hidden tax on 18 year olds by forcing them to take less than they might earn in private employment. In an excellent little book, "Volunteers, One and All," Bruce Bliven, Jr., a first-rate investigative journalist who writes for the New Yorker, says the armed services are experiencing no difficulty in recruiting at a pace of 1,000 men and women a day. This is enough to sustain Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps at their present strength of 2,130,000.

Moreover, the quality remains high. The volunteer's test scores are "higher than the scores of the mixed force, that combination of draftees and volunteers who entered the services in the last year of Selective Service." The army doesn't recruit from those in the lowest aptitude range, the so-called Group V, even though there are countless assignments in the infantry that could be filled by men of less than average intelligence.

So what do people like Sen. Nunn really want? Stephen E. Herbits, who helped the so-called Wednesday Group in Congress project its plans for a volunteer army, thinks that worries about the future of recruiting are vastly overblown. So what if the economy should bounce back, absorbing some of our now unemployed teenagers? Recruiting allows for many variables, some of which have not been conspicuously utilized.

Women now comprise seven per cent of the armed forces. Without recruiting them for combat roles or for heavy work involving "upper arm strength," they could easily fill ten per cent of the necessary jobs without hurting either efficiency or morale. As for worries about a "non-representative" army consisting too many blacks and too many Southerners, Herbits scoffs at this ancient bugaboo.

In the first place, the army should be an equal opportunity employer - if more blacks, or more Southerners, qualify, it would be denying the democratic principle to go over to an ethnic or regional quota system. But in any case, the percentage of blacks and Southerners varies from predicted annual figures within narrow margins.

At the end of fiscal 1975, the black soldiers stood at 22 per cent. The South, where military traditions run strong, provided 37 per cent. No earth-shaking worries here: the army is not likely to change much in its ethnic and regional makeup as long as its reputation for teaching skills useful in civil life is maintained.

One thing that Herbits, who thinks the King report is intellectually shabby, would like to see is more awareness among high school guidance counselors of the opportunities for further education that the army offers young people. One "soldiers" and, in the process, acquires many a skill, from electronics to nuclear science, that is marketable in the civilian economy.

As for "national service," that is quite another story. It would cost $50 billion a year, or enough to wreck the economy. Some "service"!

Transmission line wins approval

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton Power & Light Co. should be permitted to build a 138-kilovolt transmission line in parts of Darke and Miami counties, the Ohio Power Siting Commission has recommended.

But the commission added, the line should not affect the agricultural activities of the area.

The commission staff recommended a combination of two routes that would use railroad right-of-way, minimizing agricultural impact such as soil compaction.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

In-laws interfere with needed sleep

DEAR ABBY: We have been married seven months and our only quarrels have been over by husband's refusal to take my part against his parents when they are in the wrong.

We live in a one-room apartment with a pull-down bed. The church we attend is on the corner of our block. My husband's parents attend the early morning Mass there every Sunday. We attend a later Mass, but his parents have started coming to our apartment right after early morning Mass.

I work six days a week and Sunday morning is the only morning I can sleep a little later, but with my in-laws calling on us before 7:30 a.m., it is impossible. Also I look terrible when I first get up, and I'm embarrassed to receive guests that way.

Last Sunday my in-laws woke me up again. I ran into the bathroom and locked the door. My mother-in-law demanded that I come out and apologize for my "childish" behavior. My husband didn't take my part against his mother, and I think he should have.

Another time his father opened some mail, addressed to me, and my husband didn't say a word. When I complained about his folks, he says, "Remember Exodus XX, 12, the Fifth Commandment: 'Honor thy father and thy mother.' IN-LAW TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Your in-laws are rude and inconsiderate, and your husband should set them straight. And since your husband quotes Scriptures, ask him to read Genesis II, 24: "And therefore shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife."

DEAR ABBY: "X" and I were secretly married by a justice of the peace in a neighboring state during our freshman year at college two years ago. Afterwards, we never really lived together except for one weekend and a night now and then. Our marriage was very disappointing; and we soon realized it was a big mistake, so we just broke off.

Now, I have met someone else and I am serious about him. I've asked "X" for a divorce, but he doesn't want to give me one because he's afraid his parents will find out that he was married, and there will be trouble. He needs their financial help to finish college, and he doesn't want to anger them.

How can this be handled without public? We mean nothing to each other now. The marriage was a dumb impulsive idea. SHORT MARRIAGE

DEAR SHORT: You need legal advice. See a lawyer. There is even a possibility that an annulment, instead of a divorce, is in order.

DEAR ABBY: A man from the cemetery has been going around selling lots and monuments. I would like to know if I really have to put the date and year of my birth on the monument. I don't think it's anybody's business. LIKES MY PRIVACY

DEAR LIKES: It is customary to place the date of birth and death on a monument, but there is no law that compels you to do so.

Embattled Zaire seeking Coca-Cola

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Zaire government, fighting an invading army with Moroccan troops, French pilots and Belgian arms, now is pleading with the United States for massive wartime shipments of Coca-Cola.

The Carter administration says no. "Well, you know, (on) foreign military sales, Coca-Cola is not an item that falls under that," a State Department official said Tuesday when asked about the request from Zaire.

The official said President Mobutu Sese Seko placed Coke on the military shopping list he sent to Washington after Katangan troops rumbled across the border between Zaire and Angola last month.

Morocco is backing the Zaire government with about 1,500 troops involved in the fighting against a force of Katangan gendarmes. France dispatched 11 transport planes and pilots to ferry supplies for Zaire and Belgium sent armaments to Mobutu for the Cokes.

Officials at the Zaire embassy in Washington could not be reached for comment. No one answered the phone.

Coca-Cola officials in Atlanta said they knew nothing of Zaire's request, although one spokesman expressed surprise, saying he thought his firm already has a bottling plant in the African nation.

In 1966, surgeons in Houston, Tex., made the first implant of an artificial heart in a human.

In 1967, the Greek army seized control of the government in Athens and set up military rule.

Ten years ago: The late Soviet dictator Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, arrived in New York after seeking political asylum at the U.S. embassy in New Delhi the previous month.

Five years ago: The Apollo 16 astronauts, John Young and Charles Duke, were exploring the surface of the moon, driving an electric car.

One year ago: Egypt and China signed a military accord in Peking.

Today's birthdays: Queen Elizabeth of Britain is 51 years old. Actor Anthony Quinn is 62.

Thought for today: Democracy is not a static thing. It is an everlasting march — President Franklin Roosevelt, 1882-1945.

In frontier days in Putnam County, the Ottawa River often was referred to as Hog Creek because often hogs were drowned in the stream while being driven to supply the British at Fort Miami with pork.—AP

Crab fishermen fear poor harvest

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — The gloom at the city dock one recent morning was clearly inappropriate for this special time of year at this special spot on the planet.

"Going to try a peeler run tomorrow?"

"What's the use? Pulled 200 pots this morning and got half a basket of jimmies and two baskets of socks. Not enough to pay for the gas."

The conversation, muttered from boat to boat, was between men who do the noble work of harvesting the mid-Atlantic seaboard of its incomparable treasure, the blue crab.

The blue crab is to Maryland what the lobster is to Maine, the shrimp to Louisiana, the abalone to California.

No other waters yield a substitute, or an equal bounty. In an average year

Chesapeake Bay alone produces more than 200 million crabs, 70 million pounds. When the first crab boats tie up in late April it is the annual time of joy and celebration.

This year ...

A half bushel of jimmies, male crabs, and two bushels of socks, females, out of 200 crab traps that in normal times deliver a bushel a trap, represents a social if not economic disaster.

This spring, up and down the coast, the hundreds who watch eagerly at Baltimore's Wholesale Fish Market, Washington's Maine Avenue Wharf, Philadelphia's Market Center, Boston's Fish Pier, New York's Fulton Fish Market, will just have to stay home and wait, and hope.

No crabs. Not yet.

Steel firm notes loss in quarter

CLEVELAND (AP) — A $6.15 million loss the past quarter was blamed on severe winter weather by Republic Steel Corp., which indicated dissatisfaction with its current profit margin.

W. J. De Lancey, president and chairman, said the winter loss shows "that our profit margins are presently insufficient to withstand any unusual condition which results in substantial excess cost."

De Lancey also said Republic's dissatisfaction was shared by the industry as a whole, but declined to say whether the dissatisfaction would be translated into price hikes.

De Lancey said the loss was the equivalent of 38 cents per share on sales that totaled $648.5 million, or 7.2 per cent more than in the previous first quarter.

In the 1976 period, net income totaled $13.59 million or 84 cents per share on sales of $604.95 million. Republic, the nation's fourth largest steelmaker, shipped 1.53 million net tons the the past quarter, compared with 1.6 million a year earlier.

The March recovery wasn't enough to make up for the January and February problems of natural gas and electricity shortages, blizzards and transportation difficulties, De Lancey said. Looking ahead, he added that orders are up broadly, indicating steel shipments will rise throughout the year.

In terms of return on investment, that loss represented a minus 0.4 per cent, in contrast to the 3.2 per cent return during the first three months of 1976.

Looking for employees?

Seniors at Washington Senior High School are looking for work.

At two employment seminars held recently at Washington Senior High School, seniors explored the realities encountered in job-hunting, job contracts, gross pay vs. take-home pay, fringe benefits, etc.

The seniors will graduate June 5, and statistics say that 55 to 65 per cent will forego college and search for challenging permanent employment.

During the seminars, seniors were informed on the writing of resumes and were advised to use present skills in selecting jobs.

Dale Sherman of Calmar Industries and David Six of BancOhio were on hand at one of the seminars to conduct sample job interviews. The seniors were allowed to view a typical session between prospective employee and employer. A question and answer session followed.

The seminars were part of a newly instituted program initiated by high school counselors and administrators to provide job-hunting training to students who are not planning to attend college.

Most seniors felt the seminars were worthwhile and were more confident about embarking on job interviews.

Our seniors have a variety of skills to offer in the business, retail, and technical skill areas. The graduates have attended either the Senior High School building or the Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus.

Any employers, who are looking for new employees, are welcome to call counselors Mrs. Philip French or Donald Gibbs at 335-1970. They will be glad to arrange for interviews between employers and seniors.

MUSICAL PREPARATION — Mrs. Carmen Johnson leads a line of Washington Senior High School dancers in practice for the "Siamese Ballet," one of the dances in the upcoming musical "The King and I."

Qualls easily handles dynamic role

The main character in the upcoming Washington Senior High School musical, "The King and I," is of course the King. This dynamic role is brilliantly portrayed by Mike Qualls.

If you were to describe the King, you could use various adjectives such as stubborn, chauvinistic, and childish. But, he is also endowed with assets on the other end of the scale. He is intelligent, understanding, and loyal.

It is hard to imagine such contrasting characteristics in one man, but they all make his portrayal difficult.

Fittingly, Mike has a vivacious personality too. This is an aid to him playing the role.

To make the King come alive on stage, Mike has to take on an air of egotism, which is the extreme opposite of his own natural actions. He has created this reality by changing his voice, walking, and using common mannerisms.

Mike is having a great time posing as the King, and sometimes he is so in character that he continues to play the role off stage. But, he knows how far to act and when to return to the jovial Mike we all know.

The play practices are running smoothly in preparation for opening night. We wish Mike all the luck in the world during his debut.

The musical will be presented Friday and Saturday at the Middle School auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m. each night.

Faculty receives weekly honors

This week's 'Lion of the Week' is the faculty of Washington Senior High School.

Often left out through the course of the year, the faculty does a tremendous job, not only for the student body, but also for the public. There are a total of 40 members on the faculty staff, including the two secretaries and two counselors.

Being a teacher has a lot of responsibilities. Teachers are always seen working whether it be at school or at home.

A big thanks is due to the faculty of WSHS for the many years of great service, and education brought forth to our students and our community.

Dancers receive tutoring

Mrs. Johnson helps with musical

Often in school musicals, the lead roles get all the recognition. We feel that the spotlight is shared in "The King and I".

This particular play has many difficult scenes, and one of the most difficult is the Siamese Ballet.

To really use the term "ballet" is incorrect. This dance is very oriental, so there are no pointed toes or hands held away from the audience, which would be a "faux pas" in ballet.

The choreographer for the entire play is Mrs. Carmen Johnson.

We are pleased and honored to have her in our play. She has danced since she was three years old and started teaching at the age of 11. The only thing that kept her from becoming a professional dancer—it is obvious that she has the talent to be one—was that she enjoys teaching much more, and also wanted a family.

She has one son, Scott who is a slave in the play, and one daughter Loree, who is attending Ohio State University. Loree helped her mother in her dancing classed here in town, and recently helped her with ideas for this dance in the play.

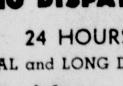

Mrs. Johnson commented that this play was quite a challenge to the girls. Most of them have had previous dancing experience, and it is hard to break the habit of pointed toes and the regular manner of ballet. They have had one rehearsal and she was extremely pleased with them.

As mentioned before, she said this is really not a ballet; she refers to it as a mime.

"Choreography is not always just dancing, but every physical action, which is the most important part of acting on stage," remarked Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson would like to start teaching again next fall, because she really misses it. Not only does she miss it, but it makes her feel good when she is dancing. She also said that helping with the musicals are a delight to her and she is very proud to be a part of it. We are proud to have you Mrs. Johnson.

The dancers are Kitten Anderson (principal dance), Beth Harris, Shelly Dove, Robin Hendren, Susan Pommert, Tracy Oesterle, Susan Moore, Linda Warner, Kitten Sagar, and Susan Stewart.

Free tool library tried in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Inner city residents here are able to avoid much of the trouble of annual spring house repairs by borrowing the tools they need from their Uncle Sam instead of their neighbor.

Need a power drill to install some paneling? Or a sander to spruce up some wood floors? How about a paint brush or pipe wrench? It's all available and it's all free.

The project, unique in Ohio, is financed with $175,000 in federal community development funds. There are believed to be only two others like it financed with CDA funds in the nation.

To get a hammer, posthole digger, shovels, bench grinder with safety goggles, bolts and nuts, and a ladder, residents of five areas of the inner city visit the "Mobile Tool Library," three vans outfitted to deliver and pick up the equipment that circulates around the city.

People who live in South Linden, near east, near south, Franklinton and east Columbus obtain at no cost almost any kind of power tool or other equipment to renovate and rehabilitate their homes, whether they own the property or rent. They acquire the gear as easily as checking out a book from the public library.

Traffic Court

A number of traffic violation waivers were signed and paid in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Wednesday.

Roger E. Downs, 28, of 1218 S. High St., and Mark A. Manson, 20, Chillicothe, signed $35 waivers for speeding.

Signing $30 speeding violation waivers were Jack L. Warner, 25, of 1121 S. Fayette St.; Richard A. Robinson, 40, Springfield; and Julian D. Maxey, 37, Columbus. Robert H. Lawson, 24, Cleveland, signed a $25 speeding waiver.

State employees to study driving

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state is going to teach its employees defensive driving in an attempt to cut the costs of vehicle repairs and disability claims arising from on-the-job traffic accidents.

The Department of Highway Safety Wednesday kicked off a year-long program in which all employees who operate motor vehicles on state business will be taught how to prevent dangerous driving situations from developing.

"The idea behind this program is to reduce the involvement of state workers in traffic accidents," said director Robert Chiaramonte, "and thus reduce the cost in property damage, personal injury claims and lost time that results from these crashes."

By June next year, Chiaramonte estimates 15,000-25,000 state workers will have received eight hours of professionally-designed instruction.

A group of 160 state workers have been selected to undergo intensive training this month at the Highway Patrol Academy.

equipment which would be too expensive to buy for occasional use.

"I've used the paint up—clean up equipment," she said. "They supply the drip pans and the covers for the furniture." She has also used carpet cleaning and floor polishing gear.

"Well, actually I think it is a very beneficial program," Mrs. Langhorne said. "I don't drive so its very convenient" to get tools from the van parked in the neighborhood.

The project is just over a year old, and despite its apparent attractiveness, the city initially had trouble finding people who wanted to borrow the gear. The program lasts another year.

But the project's current coordinator, Ken Angel, says public interest is increasing. During the first year, 2,072 tools of various shapes and sizes were loaned. One-fourth as many have been distributed in the last two months alone.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUCK

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Broadcast pioneer William S. Paley has taken the first step toward loosening the tight control he's had over CBS since it was founded in 1928.

He said Wednesday that he plans to step down as the company's chief executive officer and will recommend to CBS directors on May 11 that John D. Backe, president of CBS, Inc., be named his successor.

But does he think he'll ever step down as board chairman?

"Yes, of course I will," said the man who took a 16-station radio network, named it CBS and built it into an empire that last year had 30,000 employees worldwide and net sales of $2.2 billion.

But he only grinned when asked if he'll retire as chairman.

"I don't know," said Paley, 75. "It might be that I get interested in something else I want to try, it could be a lot of things."

"But it's awfully hard for me to imagine not being interested in CBS as a corporation as long as my mental faculties remain at least normal, as well as my physical frame and what's in it."

Tanned and fit-looking, Paley spoke in a brief interview after addressing the annual CBS shareholders' meeting, held this year at CBS' production center in nearby Studio City.

There, he reaffirmed his decision — first announced in October — to step down as chief executive officer of CBS, Inc., in which capacity he made day-to-day decisions on the operation of the company.

CBS, Inc. owns not only the CBS radio and television networks, but also Columbia Records and other divisions that publish books, operate retail stores and make musical instruments.

Backe, the 43-year-old executive Paley picked to succeed him, comes from a publishing, not a broadcasting background. Backe, who joined CBS in 1973, became the company's second most powerful man when his predecessor, Arthur R. Taylor, abruptly resigned last Oct. 13 after four years on the job.

Taylor, chief architect of television's so-called "family hour," never has said why he quit his $480,000-a-year job, but CBS sources attribute it to a personality conflict with the strong-willed Paley. Still, Taylor's action surprised the industry.

Fifteen months earlier, Paley, seeking to rebut a report he and Taylor weren't getting along, issued a statement saying he'd "be greatly pleased to have him (Taylor) as my successor."

Paley, CBS' chief executive officer since 1928 and its board chairman since 1946, declined on Wednesday to say why he'd changed his mind.

He only said when he told CBS directors last year he'd be retiring as chief executive officer, "I and the board decided that the best person to follow in my footsteps was Mr. Backe."

"And that led to the resignation of Mr. Taylor."

Paley was asked if a personality conflict with Taylor had occurred.

"We decided that Mr. Backe was better suited to follow in my footsteps than Mr. Taylor," he said, declining to elaborate.

Showers forecast for nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and scattered thunderstorms were forecast for much of the nation today, with cooler temperatures expected over most of the Far West and over the southern Rocky Mountains.

Flash flood watches were posted for portions of Texas, Oklahoma, southeastern Kansas, southern Missouri and parts of Arkansas and Louisiana.

The belt of showers was expected to stretch through the states with flood watches, across the Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes and into the Appalachians and New England. A chance of scattered showers was predicted for the southern Atlantic coast states as well as the Pacific Northwest into Montana.

Mild temperatures were forecast from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic.

There were occasional thunderstorms scattered over Florida earlier today.

A lack of rain in the Northeast is considered partially to blame for scattered forest fires in Vermont.

Skies were partly cloudy over much of the Southeast and New England early today, as well as in parts of the northern Great Plains, most of the Rockies, the intermountains and nearly all of the Pacific Coast.

Eight tornados were reported Wednesday along with gusty winds, damaging hail and funnel clouds associated with severe thunderstorms.

Predawn temperatures ranged from 23 degrees at Glasgow, Mont., to 77 degrees at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Realtors offer home safety tips

"With warmer weather creeping up on us, it's time to begin thinking safety in connection with remodeling, home repairs and maintenance," advised James Polk, president of the Fayette County Board of Realtors.

"No task around the home is more important than those associated with making and keeping it a safe home," he said. He made some suggestions for home safety, one of the major themes of Private Property Week, April 17-23.

Here are a few fire safety ideas:

—replace bedroom and stairway doors that have openings in them such as louvers as they allow smoke to enter areas that are otherwise fire-and-smoke-safe;

—make sure that closet doors and doors between rooms can be opened easily from either side; and —make certain that combustible materials are not placed against lights.

Heating equipment safety:

—heating devices should be vented to the outside, either directly or through a chimney, and have draft hoods or dampers appropriate to the fuel being used;

—make sure that closet doors and —vent pipes should be tightly connected to chimneys, not rusted through or sagging; and

—fuel lines should not extend into the areas where they may be damaged or ruptured easily, and fuel shut-offs should be identified as such.

Electrical safety:

—make sure you have proper overload protection, either a circuit breaker or fuses;

—check all your electrical equipment and appliances. They should bear labels of a nationally recognized testing agency; and —be certain your home has sufficient electrical capacity to accommodate the expected equipment load and have an electrical contractor check the adequacy of the system.

Other safety features:

—make sure you have adequate lighting for all work surfaces in the kitchen, work shop and sewing room;

—do not locate a kitchen range under a window on which curtains are hanging;

—replace shower doors that are not glazed with safety glass or plastic. The same goes for patio and sliding glass doors;

—if bathtub bottoms are slippery, install pressure sensitive strips to make it less so and install firm, unbreakable grab bars in the tub and shower where necessary;

—if the home is at a relatively high elevation and isolated, be sure it is equipped with a lightning rod system;

—make certain the garage has adequate ventilation; and —check to see that your TV antenna mast is well grounded.

These are just a few ideas on safety in and around the home," said Polk.

"Besides keeping your home safe for those you love, you also are making it a more salable item," Polk said. "A well-cared-for home sells much faster than one that shows signs of neglect."

The Fayette County Board of Realtors is one of 1,700 member boards and 50 state associations of the 500-member National Association of Realtors joining home owners in the April 17-23 observance of Private Property Week.

Brazil closes book on Bormann

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The Brazilian government announced this week that it was giving up the search for the most hunted Nazi war criminal, Martin Bormann. But West Germany closed the books on Hitler's phantom deputy four years ago.

Brazil's attorney general said the Supreme Court shelved West Germany's 1967 request for Bormann's extradition because there was no evidence he was in the country.

"I didn't even know we had a request out for his extradition," said a spokesman for the West German Foreign Ministry.

Another spokesman couldn't remember who Bormann was.

Bormann in the days of the Third Reich was the least known of Hitler's men and the most powerful. He stayed out of the limelight that Goering, Goebbels and Himmler courted. But he ran the Nazi party and through it the country, managed Hitler's private life and his fortune and was the Fuehrer's closest aide, adviser and associate.

He emerged from Hitler's shadow to become the target of a worldwide search for nearly three decades, the only one of the major war criminals arraigned at Nuernberg who could not be found. Over the years there were thousands of reports that he had been seen. They all proved false or inconclusive. An Italian monk, a Guatemalan farmer and a German emigrant to Colombia were among those mistaken for the missing man.

The most recent Bormann stir was caused by Ladislas Farago, a best-selling author and former U.S. intelligence agent. In November, 1972, in a series of newspaper articles he reported that the missing man was living in South America and had been photographed as he crossed into Argentina from Chile. An Argentine school teacher, Rudolfo Nicholas Siri, later identified himself as the man in the photograph. Siri was 54 at the time; Bormann would have been 72.

The West German government declared Bormann officially dead in 1973 after two skeletons were found during excavation of a construction site in Berlin.

Frankfurt Attorney General Horst Gauf announced: "Martin Bormann died on May 2, 1945, between 1 and 3 a.m. on the Invalidenstrasse railroad bridge in Berlin a short time after his accomplice Adolf Hitler."

Gauf said one skeleton was Bormann's, the other was that of Hitler's doctor, Ludwig Stumpfegger, who was known to have tried to break through the Russian lines with Bormann.

Last February an American expert, Dr. Reidar F. Sognnaes of the University of California at Los Angeles, reported he matched the Bormann skull "tooth by tooth and crown by crown" to the Nazi leader's dental charts and he believed the identification conclusive.

Aerial ballerina injured in fall

CINCINNATI (AP) — Aerial ballerina Nancy Joy Gordano was reported in serious condition with multiple fractures after she plunged 28 feet to the floor during her act with the Shrine Circus on Wednesday.

The 29-year-old trapeze veteran was performing for a mostly children's audience when she fell at Cincinnati Gardens.

"It was tragic," said ringmaster Señor Rai. "I saw her fall when she was in midair. I ran to try to help her, but it was too late. It shook me up completely."

Circus producer Tommy Hanneford said he hadn't seen an accident "like this since the 1960s."

Miss Gordano suffered multiple fractures of the jaw, ribs, both arms and a leg.

DP&L ponders repayment order

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, including action Wednesday, now has ordered electric companies to repay customers more than $11 million in overcharges.

Dayton Power & Light Co. became the fourth utility Wednesday to come under a repayment order when the PUCO found it owed its electricity customers a total of $907,105 for three months.

The bulk of the repayment, $690,973, is for January and February when DP&L was buying electric power from other power companies rather than generating its total customer needs.

Ohio law requires that utilities must provide energy at the lowest possible cost. PUCO rules allow electric utilities to buy from each other but demand that the companies prove through cost comparison studies that the purchased power is cheaper than it would be if generated by the utility itself.

The company defended buying rather than generating electricity in those two months on the grounds that it was in an emergency position. It further said the purchased power was the cheapest even though the cost comparison was not made.

In ordering the repayment for January and February charges, the commission did not say that the purchased electricity was more expensive but that DP&L failed to make the cost comparison.

The remaining $216,000 payback results from the commission finding that the company miscalculated its fuel use for electricity generating in October 1976.

The company now has three options:

—It may ask the PUCO for a rehearing. The commission normally denies such requests.

—It may appeal to the Supreme Court.

—Or it may pay the money back to its customers.

Company officials said they are not sure at this time which of those options they will select.

The PUCO ruling came during a fuel adjustment hearing. Each utility company is allowed to vary its rates according to its fuel costs which vary monthly. Twice a year the utilities must prove to the PUCO that the fuel adjustments are valid.

DP&L serves about 400,000 electricity customers. The average reconciliation per customer amounts to $2.50, although it will vary widely with biggest users going above the average and smaller consumers getting much less. Consumers should not expect cash repayments but instead a reduction in their bills.

Late in 1975 the PUCO was empowered to force the utilities to prove their fuel adjustment charges. Until then, the utilities were able to pass the increases or decreases in their fuel bills straight through to customers without monitoring by government.

Since enactment of the law, Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., Ohio Edison, and Ohio Power Co. have been ordered to make reconciliations.

The largest order involved Ohio Power early this month when the PUCO found it owed its customers $9.5 million. Ohio Power is appealing.

CG&E was ordered in December 1976 to pay back $250,000. In February, Ohio Edison was told it owed consumers $461,000.

Local resident slightly injured in city mishap

A 48-year-old Washington C.H. man was slightly injured when his pickup truck was reportedly struck in the rear by another truck Wednesday near the intersection of Columbus Avenue and Willard Street.

Richard H. Schreckengast, 903 E. Temple St., complained of neck injuries following the mishap, but he did not seek immediate medical attention, according to the Washington C.H. Police Department.

The driver of the other pickup truck was William J. Oesterle, 23, of Jeffersonville. He told police officers that he did not see Schreckengast slowing in traffic and struck the vehicle in the rear. Oesterle was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

One other traffic mishap was reported by area law enforcement officers Wednesday.

The city police department reported that a car driven by Helen M. Mitchell, 45, of 809 Independence Court, was backing from a parking space on the Fayette County Memorial Hospital parking lot and scraped the side of a parked car owned by Penny S. Bartley, Rt. 3, Greenfield.

Hospitals get more help

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's hospitals may get a better break on malpractice insurance costs under a bill which received overwhelming approval in the House on Wednesday.

The measure exempts hospitals from liability when a physician who is not an employee fails to obtain "informed consent" from patients prior to nonemergency surgery on hospital premises.

Rep. Norman A. Murdock, R-21

Cincinnati, the bill's chief sponsor, stressed that the physician remains liable for failure to obtain consent as required under existing law.

Murdock sought to withhold the exemption in situations in which physicians perform surgery under contract with hospitals. But the House decided by floor amendment, in effect, that hospitals have no control over contracting physicians or their surgical procedures.

Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, won 49-45 approval of his amendment which keeps hospitals free of liability when a contracting physician fails to obtain patients' consent.

Oakland snaps losing streak

Truck driving McKinney puts A's back on win road

BY KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Rich McKinney had to make a choice between driving a truck and driving a baseball. It was no choice.

"Mr. Finley called me and told me it would be the best chance I had since I came to Oakland and I would be foolish not to report," said McKinney.

Mr. Finley is Charles O. Finley — owner of the Oakland A's. And McKinney is glad he called him.

Since putting on Oakland's colorful uniform late in spring training, McKinney has been hitting with authority, and Wednesday he slugged his third home run of the season, leading the A's over the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2.

McKinney also drove in a run with a single, helping the A's break a three-game losing streak.

McKinney is as surprised as anybody about his quick start. Usually, he does not start hitting homers until mid-season. He had 22 last year with Oakland's farm club at Tucson, a season he thought might be his last in organized baseball.

"I was going to quit this season because I hadn't had a real shot with Oakland in three years," said McKinney, who planned to drive a truck in Ohio before the call from Finley.

In other American League games, the Texas Rangers beat the Seattle Mariners 5-2, the Chicago White Sox edged the California Angels 3-2, the Minnesota Twins stopped the Kansas City Royals 3-2, the Detroit Tigers nipped the Boston Red Sox 3-2, the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Cleveland Indians 7-2 and the New York Yankees outscored the Toronto Blue Jays 7-5.

Rangers 5, Mariners 2

Dave May and Toby Harrah smashed home runs, leading Texas over Seattle. May hit a two-run homer in the third inning. Harrah collected his fourth homer of the season. Seattle's Juan Bernhardt also smashed his fourth homer of the year, a solo shot in the fifth.

White Sox 3, Angels 2

Eric Soderholm reached base four straight times against Nolan Ryan on three hits and a walk, leading Chicago over California. Soderholm, who sat out the 1976 season with a knee injury, collected two singles, homered and drove in a run.

Ryan struck out six, regaining the American League strikeout lead from teammate Frank Tanana. He walked seven, however. White Sox starter Chris Knapp also walked seven.

Twins 3, Royals 2

Utilizing five double plays and solo homers by Larry Hisle, Dan Ford and Craig Kusick, Minnesota nipped Kansas City. Hisle and Ford tagged starter Paul Splittorff with successive homers, giving the Twins a 2-0 lead in the third.

Mark Littell, 1-1, relieved Splittorff in the eighth, and with two out, Kusick lofted a shot over the left field fence.

Tigers 3, Red Sox 2

Veteran Rusty Staub and rookie Steve Kemp lined solo homers off Boston's Luis Tiant, helping Detroit beat the Red Sox. Detroit right-hander Vern Ruhle, 2-1, earned his first victory over the Red Sox since Sept. 29, 1974, his rookie season, with eight-inning relief help from Steve Foucault and John Hiller.

Orioles 7, Indians 2

Doug DeCinces rapped a two-run first-inning homer off Wayne Garland, a former teammate who defected to Cleveland for a lucrative free agent contract, and Baltimore went on to defeat the Indians.

Rookie Scott McGregor, making his first start of the season against his more celebrated rival, needed eighth-inning relief from Dennis Martinez as the Orioles notched their fifth straight victory and completed a three-game sweep of the Indians.

Yankees 7, Blue Jays 5

Willie Randolph hit his first home run in more than a year and Don Gullett notched his first American League triumph as New York snapped a five-game losing streak by defeating Toronto.

Gullett, who signed with the Yankees after playing out his option with the World Champion Cincinnati Reds, allowed three runs and six hits in the first three innings, then held the Blue Jays hitless until they chased him with two runs on three hits in the eighth.

Toledo defeats Fort Wayne, 6-5

First inning lead doesn't hold

Five unearned runs give Lions first SCOL loss

By MARK REA

Record-Herald Sports Editor

LONDON, Ohio — The Washington C. H. Blue Lions lost only their second game of the year last night, but it was a costly one.

The Lions travelled to Madison Plains for a duel that left both teams with one loss in SCOL play.

Scoring their usual early runs, Court House couldn't make a four-run lead in the first inning stand up as Plains took a game with five unearned runs, 5-4.

Dee Hart Foster was the hardluck losing pitcher for the Lions. Foster pitched the first three and two-thirds of the game, yielding all five runs, none of them earned.

Foster only gave up two hits while striking out four and walking seven.

Mark Heiny came in to relieve in the fourth inning and went the rest of the way. Heiny scattered just one hit in his two and one-third innings of work.

Gary Reynolds took the win for Plains, pitching six innings of hour-hit baseball. Reynolds survived the first inning cloudburst by the Lions, but tired in the seventh. He gave up all four runs on four hits while striking out seven and walking five.

Pete Sullivan came in to put out the fire in the seventh and picked up the save. Sullivan allowed the Lions nothing and he struck out two.

The Lions first inning began with leadoff man Mark Burke and center fielder Jeff Estep reaching on walks.

Gary Fisher delivered a single that chased Burke to the plate for the first run.

Jeff DeWeese then cracked a double that sent Estep around and Jeff Elliott was safe on a fielder's choice, Fisher scoring. DeWeese scored the fourth run on a double steal as Elliott took second.

The 4-0 Lion lead stood up until the second inning when errors started to take its toll on Washington. A fly ball was dropped in the outfield for a two-base error to lead things off.

But, Foster settled down to strike out the next two batters. A walk to the next batter and a double steal put runners on second and third.

Then, Foster hurled one in the dirt that DeWeese blocked. However, DeWeese's throw to get the runner easily at the plate was missed by Foster, allowing a pair of runs to cross the plate and make the score 4-2.

Errors cost the Lions the game in the fourth inning as Plains came up with three more runs. After two were out again, Plains got a single and scored when another fly ball was dropped in the outfield.

The bases were loaded on walks and Sullivan came up with the game-winning hit, a two-run single up the middle to seal the game.

The Lions threatened in the seventh as Estep reached on a two-base error and Fisher walked. But, Sullivan came in to strike out DeWeese, get Elliott to ground into a force play, and strike out Johnson to win the game.

Washington's next game will be another important one as they take on Miami Trace tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. at the WSHS diamond. Tentative starters for the game will be Elliott for Court House and Stu Foster for the Panthers.

THAT'S WHAT YOU THINK — Washington C.H. baseball coach Paul On-drus felt things were a little lopsided in the officiating after one call last night. There were several controversial calls last night in the game between Madison Plains and the Blue Lions, but the Eagles came out a winner 5-4.

Cincinnati makes Sparky see Red

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Sutton struggled and won. Sparky Anderson paged and seethed.

"I felt like Carmen Basilio waltzing past Mohammed Ali," said Sutton, the Los Angeles Dodger right-hander, after Wednesday's 3-1 victory over the skidding Cincinnati Reds.

"I'm so mad right now I ache all over," moaned Anderson, whose world champion Reds have lost eight of their last nine games to drop into the cellar of the National League West.

The Reds had Sutton on the ropes throughout, but the crafty veteran avoided the knockout punch. He fired a seven-hitter, stranding nine Reds baserunners.

"It is like a bank robber pulling off a job and through the police net," crowed Dodger Manager Tommy LaSorda, who has his club off to a stunning 9-2 start.

Ron Cey's two-run homer off Fred Norman in the sixth inning erased a 1-1 tie, helping the Dodgers to their seventh straight victory. Dave Lopes put the Dodgers ahead with a leadoff homer.

Anderson was fit to be tied. He spent the game nervously roaming the rail of the team dugout.

"I haven't been this mad before," said the white-haired manager, perhaps fearing a collapse to match the 1971 disaster. That year, the Reds fell from a World Series participant to a fourth place finish.

"Fred Norman was suppose to win. It was there for him to win. All people had to do was hit a fly ball or a ground ball," said Anderson.

The Reds, 4-8, now trail Los Angeles by 5 1/2 games less than two weeks into the season.

Anderson said he won't yield to the temptation of wholesale lineup changes.

"I'm not going to make any changes. I'm not Billy Martin," he said, referring to the New York Yankee manager who resorted to drawing names out of a hat Wednesday to pick his lineup.

The Reds had runners at second or third in five innings, but Sutton escaped.

"He had his back to the wall. Every inning he was in trouble but he never quit," said LaSorda.

He attributed the speedy start by the Dodgers to "a great attitude. They now believe."

Sutton, now 2-0, had not defeated the Reds since July of 1975. He was 0-4 against Cincinnati last year despite winning 20 games for the first time in his career.

Ken Griffey, the Reds top hitter last year with a .336 average, summarized Cincinnati's plight. "Right now it's not there. We're not forcing the issue. Nobody is getting the key hit."

The Reds take their troubled bats to Chicago Friday for a weekend series.

Last second shot gives Portland win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometimes the best plays are the ones that don't work.

Maurice Lucas saw a play break down in the closing seconds of Portland's National Basketball Association playoff game against Denver Wednesday night, but he knew exactly what to do.

"I looked for Dave Twardzik at the top of the key," Lucas said, "but I didn't see him. So I just took it one-on-one."

Lucas worked in close, then spun and tossed up a turn-around jumper from 14 feet with 11 seconds left in the game. It went in, giving the Trail Blazers a 101-100 victory over the Nuggets in the opener of their best-of-seven quarter-final series.

"The last play that Luke scored on was not designed for him specifically," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "But Twardzik got tangled up and Luke just made a great offensive play."

In other NBA games Wednesday night, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Golden State Warriors 115-106 and gained a 1-0 lead in their quarter-final series, while the Philadelphia 76ers tied their series with the Boston Celtics at 1-1 with a 113-101 triumph.

The other quarter-final series resumes tonight with Washington, leading 1-0, at Houston.

Denver reeled off 10 straight points at the start of the fourth quarter for an 81-77 lead and was ahead 98-95 with two minutes to play. But Denver star David Thompson missed two free throws and Twardzik scored for Portland, then Thompson threw the ball away and Lucas scored, putting the Blazers in front.

Carter's three homers not enough

By BOB GREENE

AP Sports Writer

The Montreal Expos' latest loss cannot be blamed on Gary Carter.

Carter slammed three home runs, but they weren't enough to prevent the Pittsburgh Pirates from snapping their three-game losing streak with a 6-5 triumph over the Expos Wednesday.

"Unfortunately we lost and that doesn't make it a good day," Carter said.

But after thinking about his feat, he added: "I'm very thrilled about my effort and thankful for a lot of things. It's a good day and it's probably not going to come back for a long time, so I'm going to dwell on it for a while."

Two-run homers by Phil Garner and Dave Parker led the Pirates' attack.

In other National League games

Wednesday, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 3-1, St. Louis downed New York 4-2, Atlanta blanked San Diego 2-0 and San Francisco nipped Houston 1-0.

The game between the Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs was rained out after 4 1/2 innings with the Phils leading 2-1.

Dodgers 3, Reds 1

For pitcher Don Sutton, beating Cincinnati was like being an over-matched boxer. "I felt like Carmen Basilio waltzing my way past Muhammad Ali," said Sutton after scattering seven hits and defeating the Reds for the first time since July, 1975.

Home runs by Dave Lopes and Ron Cey provided all of the runs needed by Sutton, who weathered several Cincinnati threats in pitching the Dodgers to their seventh straight victory. It was the Reds' eighth loss in their last 10 games.

Cardinals 4, Mets 2

Ted Simmons drove in all four St. Louis runs as the Cards defeated New York behind Eric Rasmussen.

Simmons clobbered a three-run homer and a run-scoring single off loser Jon Matlack. Bruce Boisclair hammered a two-run homer in the ninth.

Giants 1, Astros 0

Three San Francisco pitchers combined to hurl a four-hitter and Rob Andrews singled home the game's lone run as the Giants defeated Houston. It was Houston's fifth straight defeat.

Pinch hitter Terry Whitfield singled leading off the Giants' eighth, was sacrificed to second and scored on Andrews' single.

Ed Halicki pitched the first seven innings for San Francisco, giving up all four Astros hits. Randy Moffit came on in the eighth and Gary Lavelle in the ninth.

The Washington C.H. softball team won its second game in a row with an eight-run outburst in the first inning to beat Wilmington 8-6.

The first eight batters for Court House scored one run each and then the Lions coasted home on the pitching of Debbie Kingery who took the distance win.

Dianna Stewart, Becky Wheat, and Jocelyn Campbell each had two hits for the winners and Mel Leaverton and

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association shows no signs of backing off from its position against collective bargaining with its striking referees despite a 48-hour halt to picketing by the 24 members of the National Association of Basketball Referees.

Richie Phillips, attorney for the striking referees, had said earlier this week he was "somewhat optimistic" that a settlement to the 12-day walkout could be reached this week. And Wednesday, the referees suspended picketing for 48 hours in an attempt "to foster good relations" with the NBA, according to Phillips.

Good relations are one thing, but a change in the NBA's position is another matter.

NBA Deputy Commissioner Simon Gourdin issued a statement Wednesday night indicating the league had received inquiries "concerning possible movement towards settlement of the strike."

Bookmark contest draws 200 entries

Over 200 contestants entered the "Design a Bookmark" contest sponsored by the children's department of Carnegie Public Library in recognition of National Library Week.

The bookmarks, which were required to have a library or book theme, were judged by Kathy Lee, president of the library's board of trustees; Kathy Monroe, an elementary school art teacher, and Chris Waldrep, Washington Senior High School art teacher.

Winners in the first to third grade category were Angela Cox, Second grade, Cherry Hill Elementary School, first place; Vince Gibbs, second grade, Eastside Elementary School, second place; Jenny Myers, third grade, Staunton Elementary School, third place and Patty Steward, third grade, Eastside Elementary School, third place.

Winners in the fourth to sixth grade category were Katrina Powell, fourth grade, Cherry Hill Elementary School, first place; Bret Pettit, fifth grade, Jeffersonville Elementary School, second place; Susan Fannin, fifth grade, Eastside Elementary School, third place, and Bryan Bartlett, fifth grade, Cherry Hill Elementary School, third place.

In the seventh to ninth grade category, entries were limited, so only a first place contestant was selected and that award went to Pam Thomas, an eighth grader.

All entrants may pick up their bookmarks at the library and will receive an honorable mention ribbon.

Solar energy tests slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A "third generation" of collectors designed to use solar energy to heat and cool houses will be tested here under a grant approved by the Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency.

In addition to monitoring the efficiency of the glass panels, engineers at Ohio State University will also try to determine during the next heating season if solar residential heating is feasible in the state's climate.

A first year grant of $30,000 was awarded by the state ERDA to pay for the monitoring program. It will also include tests of a solar absorption-refrigeration system to cool the house this summer.

The tests will be conducted by the Engineering Experiment Station's solar energy laboratory at the solar house on the state fairgrounds. OSU

Prof. Charles F. Sepsy will supervise.

The new collectors are "more efficient and allow for higher operating temperatures than previous panels," Sepsy said.

HAPPY HOMEMAKERS 4-H

The Happy Homemakers 4-H Club meeting was held April 14, and there were eight members present and one new one. Dues are $2. Plans to go to Kings Island Aug. 11 were discussed, and a mother's picnic was planned for July 19, and a car wash May 7.

We want to put flowers in the planters on the sidewalk downtown in Washington C.H.

The next meeting is set for April 28. Miranda Wilson, reporter.

WICAKA MANUCA

The Wicaka Manuca Camp Fire Girls met at the home of Mrs. Karen Anders, when a representative from a party plan company met with us to explain a money-making project. We also discussed going to Kings Island for the annual CF trip this year, and some other places.

We made chimes out of shells. There were nine present, and no visitors. Lisa Ginn brought refreshments.

Melanie Doyle, reporter.

HELPFUL HOMEMAKERS

The third meeting of the Helpful Homemakers 4-H Club at Belle-Aire School took place April 13 and conducted by president Patty Murphy. Attendance was taken and minutes read by Bizzy Rossmann. Julie Lockman, Nancy Cartwright and Susan Wright plan to give demonstrations at the next meeting.

Ms. Willoughby was the guest at the meeting. She talked about Physical Fitness and taught the girls different exercises including exercises for the face. She also mentioned that she conducts exercise classes for women.

The next meeting will be April 27. Susan Wright, reporter.

Computers answer D.C. letters

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Dear Alpha 2000, I certainly hope you can program your human to vote against that bill. Hope all your circuits are functioning. Regards, Beta 3000."

Computers are doing more and more of the letter-writing between Congress and groups lobbying for votes on controversial issues. In fact, in some cases, computer-produced mail is turned over to a computer which answers it.

On an issue such as the bill to permit a single construction union to shut down an entire project with a picket line, congressmen received up to 1,500 identical postcards urging them to vote against it. The cards were written, addressed and stamped by computer.

In many congressional offices, the return addresses were put on a cassette tape and turned over to a computer which produced an identical reply to each.

Aides in offices which use computer systems to answer mass mailings stressed that letters from humans are answered by humans.

What do Jimmy Carter and Dan Quayle have in common? Both are politicians, both are new in Washington and both prefer the informal versions of their names.

And so James Earl Carter Jr. took the presidential oath as Jimmy Carter. That's the way he signs bills when he reaches the White House.

J. Danforth Quayle, a first-term Republican congressman from Indiana, wants equal treatment. In a letter to the news media he wrote: "May I please make a request that you refer to me as Dan Quayle instead of as sometimes reported — J. Danforth Quayle. Even though I ran in the primary as J. Danforth Quayle, I did run in the general election as Dan Quayle. All my news releases go out under the signature of Dan Quayle. All my check signing or other signatures in my legal or official capacity are now Dan Quayle."

It was one of the biggest yogurt busts in U.S. Customs Service history. A Treasury Department news release tells us that "Customs officers in Laredo, Tex., seized 37,950 pounds of strawberry yogurt when they discovered the shipment had not been manifested."
